📍 Ethiopia - Bahir Dar

Take this opportunity to teach Kindergarten kids. You could do it with the help of building blocks and helping them in the recognition of colours, shapes and objects.

Start them off on alphabets and numbers. As is with small children, they can imbibe inputs for a maximum of 30 - 40 minutes only at a stretch. This being their formative years, there should be scope for learning through fun and games which helps them concentrate. This could be challenging but we assure you, is extremely rewarding.

Program Description

Being kindergarten kids, they are playful and exuberant. These years, 4 to 7, are also very important in a child's growth. You would be spending your valuable time and effort in the early and most important education of these children. The attention span of kids as is known is very short. Keeping this in mind, a self-directed activity approach, hands-on learning and collaborative play way method of learning are advised.

You could put to good use your creative skills and come up with interesting ways to keep the children focussed and help them learn alphabets and numbers. Recognising shapes, colours, fruits, vegetables and animals. Mind you, not how much is learnt is important, but that the children come to enjoy the activity itself and thus the spirit of learning is imbibed in them at this early phase in their life is important.

Aims & Objectives

The children are from age 4 to 7 years. This is a critical age wherein participants can induce a positive outlook for their future by inducing a keen desire to learn.

The children would be taught by the play-way method with simple alphanumeric exercises, getting to know shapes, colours, fruits, vegetables and animals. A lot of time outside the classroom is also recommended. This could be spent on teaching them some creative games and thus their energy is spent in a useful way.
